"It is respectfully represented," recited the petition, "that the Southern Pacific is not a principal stockholder of Wells, Fargo & Co., but that, to the contrary, your petitioner does not own any stock in said express company." What the railroad commission said follows:

"We would say that there is a relationship existing between the officials and stockholders of some of these railroads and this express company, through stock ownership and control arp rotection or send the by the same officials and stockholders of the two companies alike, which at least makes it possible for the railroads to be exploited for the benefit of the express company."

The commission took the position that the express company was a parasite on the railroad, and by milking it forced the railroad to milk the public. In reply the petition states that the Southern Pacific will not receive adequate compensation for hauling business offered to it by Wells, Fargo & Co. under the rates fixed by the commission, which, "being very little higher than freight rates," will lessen the company's freight business, increase its express business and "will delay the passenger train service upon which the express business is carried." The Other Side.

Morality, A Clear Conscience, A Good Name, Self-Respect, The Respect of Friends and Neighbors, Duty to One's Family, Husband, Home, Children, on the one side. On the other, Scandal, A Guilty Conscience, Waiting, Fear, No Home nor Husband nor Children of one's own, no settled place in society, to be looked at askance instead of being welcoked at askance instead of being welcome among the people one would like to know. How does the account balance, little sister? Don't you think that you will have to bay a pretty high price for your romance with a married man?

And look at the man squarely. Don't you think that any man, who would win the heart of a young girl when he knew that he couldn't marry her. Is about the most consummate cad that ever came down the pike? And doesn't he deserve a medal as the most selfish man on earth when he asks you to do a thing that will make you the target for all the most hurt him to take you out in his automobile. People will simply shrug their shoulders and say that he's a devil of a fellow with women, and that last little girl he has got a filiration with he a peach. But it will ruin you, and as long as you live there will always be a cloud of scandal on your name.

That's the Drice you will pay for your married sweetheart's attention. That's the price every woman pays, and she pays it in tears and sorrow. Have nothing to do with any married man who makes love to you. Such romances are the toboguan side to perdition. Beware of them. on FOR
